

LONDON — Prince William and Kate Middleton have chosen a family business with long ties to the royal family to make the wedding ring of rare Welsh gold that will be slipped on her finger Friday. Palace officials said the ring was made by the Watski company, which was founded in Wales in 1865. read more...